DEF. DOC. 7478

EXCERCTS FROM ADDRESS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL (in the House of Commons) September 9, 1941

(Copied from book entitled "Speeches by Fritish Leaders"

Sept. 1, 1939-Nov. 10, 1941) Volume I Geimusho Pages 116-117

The Germans were, of course, busy betimes in Fersia and were using their usual tricks. German tourists, technicians, and diplomatists were busy suborning the people and the Government of Persia with the object of creating a fifth column, which would dominate the Government at Teheran, and not only seize or destroy the oil fields, which are of the highest consequence, but-a fact to which I attach extreme importance—close the surest and shortest route by which we could reach Russia. We thought it necessary, therefore, to make sure that these rachinations did not succeed. Accordingly, we demanded from the Persian Government the immediate expulsion of their Teutonic visitors. When under local duress the Persian Government failed to comply with our request, Tritish and Pussian forces entered Persia from the south and from the north in sufficient and, indeed, overwhelming strength.

The Fersian Covernment having mede such resistance as they thought fit, sued for peace. We must have the surrender into our hands of all the Germans and Italians who are on the premises; We must have the expulsion of the German and Italian legations, whose diplomatic status we of course respect; and we must have the unquestioned control and maintenance of the through communication from the warm water port of Pasra to the Caspian Sec.

DEF. DOC. 2478

It is from this point particularly that American supplies can be carried into the centre of Russia in an ever-widening flow--and Pritish supplies as well-and naturally, every effort will be made, and is being made, to improve the railway communications and expand the volume of supplies which can be transported over the existing Pritish gauge railway, which has happily only recently been completed, and now required only large accessions of rolling stock and locomotives to expand it greatly as a line of supply.

The House will, I have no doubt, approve the somewhat drastic measures we thought it right to take to achieve those important objects, and the further measures we may have to take. The occupation of Fersia enables us to join hands with the southern flank of the Bussian armies and to bring into action there both military and air forces. It also serves important British objects in presenting a shield which should bar the eastward advance of the German raider. In this the armies of India, whose military quality has become shiningly apparent, will play an increasing part, and in so doing will keep the scourge of war a thousand miles or more from the homes of the peoples of India. One must therefore expect that very considerable deployments of British and Indian forces, and Australian forces probably, or Dominion forces, will gradually manifest themselves in this enormous and desolate or ill-doveloped region.
